"BOOTLEGGER" SHOT.

Wm. Macey Was Fleeing From Marshal Loyal P. Bennett.

Who Says He Did Not Shoot at Fugitive But Simply Fired
Pistol Unaimed.

William Macey an alleged "bootlegger" of the Breckenridge county hills was shot and fatally wounded about noon Sunday by Deputy United States Marshal Loyal P. Bennett of Owensboro death resulting six hours later. Macey was fleeing in an attempt to escape the officer when he was shot. The shot was fired at a distance of 100 yards and was not aimed at the man according to the statement of Deputy Marshal Bennett. The shooting occurred near Rosetta, a small village in the extreme eastern portion of Breckenridge county near the Meade and Hardin lines.

Macey was arrested shortly before noon Sunday on a warrant charging him with selling whisky without having paid the special tax. When the marshal had proceeded a short distance with him Macey ran. Mr. Bennett drew his revolver and fired four shots in the air but Macey did not halt. By this time he had overtopped the steep ridge and disappeared on the other side. The marshal ran to the top of the ridge and caught sight of the fugitive 100 yards below. With his pistol in the position in which he had carried it while on the run, Bennett pulled the trigger without taking aim at anything. Macey instantly fell.

An examination showed that the bullet took effect in the small of the back. Macey was taken to a house at Rosetta and died about 6 o'clock in the evening. He was about twenty-six years old. He had been in trouble before, and had the reputation of being a desperate man. He was once taken to Owensboro but broke jail after being confined for a short time.

In Memory.

Mrs. M. P. Wyun, who was born and reared in Tennessee departed this life Dec. 30th, 1905, at the home of her daughter Mrs. C. C. Borah at Cromwell Ky., she professed religion in early life and lived a consistent member of the Methodist church until she died. She was 84 years old.

Some glad morn not far away,
Just beyond this twilight dim,
We shall greet thee grandma
With the everlasting hymn.

Some glad day where flowers shall bloom,
Nevermore to fade and die
Some glad day beyond the tomb,
We shall meet grandma.

Heart to heart and hand in hand
We shall clasp again grandma,
In god's sinless summer land
Where good bye is never known.

It does not seem that my dear grandma,
Of love could I give her o'er,
But larger measures I bestow.
Tis better on before.

Time speed on to eternity,
Angels guide our weary feet;
Pearly gate wide open be,
Grandma waits with welcome sweet.

Court House Chat.

One of them says he did, and the other two think his wish was father to the blue-birds song, and that in reality he did not hear the blue-birds song. There are three youngsters who are old enough to do better, but don't, and they don't like to look in the almanac to see when spring comes, because Tommie has a liver and it makes him bilious to look at the pictures of those who have been cured, so they have agreed to make their first cruise up the creek when they hear the first blue-bird's song. There'll be a shot gun along and "something doing."

She was a dusky damsel wearing a veil and leaning on the arm of Rev. Larkin Hines, of color. They sought the County Judge in order that he might solemnize the rites of matrimony between them. The news spread through the court house quickly becomes a Court House wedding is a thing of interest and a joke forever, and this was Judge Taylor's first time to officiate. Happy Hooligan rushed to the scene and little Hooligan followed. Cal Keown laid down his adding machine crowded in, and Lis Ragland put away his books, knocked the ashes out of pipe and got there just as the ceremony closed. Two days later it developed that the bride was wearing a veil because she had an aggravated case of smallpox when she was married. She is now under quarantine and the Court House crowd are afraid of one another.

LAWSUIT ENDED.

Case of J. E. Rowe vs. J. W. Tichenor Settled by Agreement of the Parties.

Owensboro, Ky., Feb. 27.—Judgment was entered in the case of J. Edwin Rowe against J. W. Tichenor by consent of the parties yesterday setting aside the contract for the sale of certain land belonging to Rowe. It is stated in the order that Tichenor disclaims any intention of charging the plaintiff with intentional fraud. The suit was an unusual one in several respects. Rowe brought the suit to force Tichenor to accept a deed to some land amount to be stipulated in the deed. With his petition he filed a contract signed by Tichenor and by J. Edwin Rowe as agent for his wife and children by which Tichenor agreed to accept the land at a certain figure. With the deed were to be certain contracts pledging the children of J. Edwin Rowe to execute deeds when they should attain their majority, perfecting Tichenor's title to the land. Tichenor refused to accept the deed under these conditions and Rowe sued to enforce his contract. The term on which the case was compromised is not known.

MINE WORKERS

Vice-President Lewis Gives out Statement That There Will be no General Strike.

The annual convention of district No. 23 of the United Mine Workers of America, which embraces the western district, will begin in Louisville, Tuesday, March 6. The first week will be devoted to the business of the mine workers which mainly consists in the preparation of a contract to be agreed upon between the workers and the mine owners for the ensuing year beginning April 1. The second week the mine owners in the district will meet in conference with the mine workers and discuss the grievance or proposition if they are presented.

It is not known as yet what the demands of the miners will be for this year. An amicable agreement was reached last year after a conference between the operators lasting about ten days.

The convention will consist of about sixty delegates from various parts of the state. There are about thirty mine operators in the district.

In a statement issued to the associated press, Monday, Vice-President T. L. Lewis, of the Mine Workers of America declares there will be no strike of the mine workers April 1, saying the operators will restore the reduction accepted by the miners two years ago and perhaps more. ONLY 54 HOGSHEADS

Of the Daviess County Pooled Tobacco Did Not Come Up to the Sample.

[Owensboro Inquirer.]

The 1,761 hogsheads of tobacco which were pooled last year and sold recently have been received and examined by the purchasers. Out of the entire lot only fifty-four hogsheads were rejected because they did not come up to the type sample. This shows remarkable care and skill in grading and prizing. The rejected tobacco can be sold at once, several good offers having been made for it.

The work of billing the tobacco is now going on, and as soon as this is finished, which will be in a few days, the money for it will be paid. Then will come the work of making the calculations as to the amount due each member of the pool, which will take a few days more. The finance committee is confident that the money will be ready for all those to whom it is due within the next ten days.

QUEEN OF ACTRESSES PRAISES PE-RU-NA.

MISS JULIA MARLOWE

Heartily Approves of Peruna For the Nerves.

In a recent letter to The Peruna Medicine Co., Miss Julia Marlowe, of New York City, writes the following:

"I am glad to write my endorsement of the great remedy, Peruna, as a nerve tonic. I do so most heartily."—Julia Marlowe.

Nervousness is very common among women. This condition is due to anemic nerve centers. The nerve centers are the reservoirs of nervous vitality. These centers become bloodless for want of proper nutrition.

This is especially true in the spring season. Every spring a host of invalids are produced as the direct result of weak nerves.

This can be easily obviated by using Peruna. Peruna strikes at the root of the difficulty by correcting the digestion.

Digestion furnishes nutrition for the nerve centers. Properly digested food furnishes these reservoirs of life with vitality which leads to strong, steady nerves, and thus nourishes life.

Peruna is in great favor among women, especially those who have vocations that are trying to the nerves.

Peruna furnishes the lasting vigor for the nerves that such people need.

Thousands of testimonials from women in all parts of the United States are being received every year. Such unsolicited evidence surely proves that Peruna is without an equal as a nerve tonic and a vital invigorator.

Buy a bottle of Peruna to-day. If you do not receive all the benefits from Peruna that you expected, write to Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio.

WORK OF CONSTRUCTION.

On the Hartford Madisonville and Eastern Railroad Will Begin Soon.

The located survey of Ohio county's new railroad is almost adirect line from Madisonville to Mitchell, with but few curves and for miles and miles the road will run perfectly straight. The line crosses Pond River 1,000 yards below Millport, thence on across Green river at Smallhouse, thence on to Hartford, narrowly missing Centertown but not deviating from a straight line to hit it thence on to Mitchell missing Dundee and Sulphur Springs and Fordsville slightly and over the "Texas" branch to Irvington, thence over the Henderson Route to Louisville making the distance from Madisonville to Louisville 143 miles. That the road will tap the L. H. & St. L. system at Mitchell is no longer a question as traffic contract have already been made with that company to that effect.

Construction contracts are practically all made and will be completed by March 15. It is the intention now for construction work to begin about April 1, practically all along the line at once and it will be pushed to rapid completion. The management now say that they will have trains running into Louisville by April 1 1907. The roadbed will be constructed broad and firm crossed by large and heavy ties and laid with 85 pounds steel rails. Stations will be located along the line at convenient intervals.

Mr. G. W. Faegin chief engineer, has been located in Hartford since the last of January with an office force making estimates on construction preparatory to letting contracts for constructions. The right of way through Ohio county is about all secured with few exceptions where suits are pending. Work is expected to begin in early spring, not later than April 1 if deeds for the right of way can be secured in time.

JOHANN HOCH HANGS.

Arch Bigamist Pays the Penalty for a Single Crime.

Gave Wife Arsenic, Got Her Money Then Married Her Sister.

Chicago, Feb. 23.—John Hoch was hanged here at 1:34 o'clock this afternoon for the murder of one of his wives. Hoch made a speech in which he said he was innocent, and that he forgave his executors. The hanging was without incident.

Hoch arose at 6:50 o'clock this morning after a splendid night's rest. As he jumped out of the bed he remarked, "this is a fine day for February. It is just like the first day of spring."

"How do you feel this morning?" asked a reporter.

"Fine!" said Hoch, "fine."

Before he had finished his dressing he called the turnkey and gave explicit orders for his breakfast, not only telling what he wanted, but how he wanted every thing cooked. After his breakfast he lighted a cigar of a special brand. As he half-closed his eyes he looked up at the smoke and said, "Well, I am ready, but they will hang me. I am innocent they will not hang an innocent man."

Johann Hoch gained international notoriety through his arrest and prosecution for the death of Mrs. Marie Welker-Hoch, a German American widow of Chicago who died shortly after he married her. A post mortem revealed the fact that arsenic was in the blood and organs of the woman. It was learned that Hoch carried a fountain pen which contained arsenic. He had made a practice of marrying widows to secure their money. Many of the women died a few weeks after their marriage to him. He was suspected of having poisoned his victims.

After the death of Mrs. Welker-Hoch the bigamist married her sister Mrs. Amelia Fischer, another widow, who had a bank account in New York, and being brought back to Chicago was convicted on Mrs. Fischer's testimony.

Diffence Between Snobbery and Affection.

A large number of our journalistic and other friends are making a strenuous protest over the symptoms attending the marriage of Alice Roosevelt to Nicholas Longworth the congressman from Cincinnati. Their plaint runs that this interesting young lady has been the recipient of more adulation during the last two months than any princess of the royal blood and that the presents showered upon the happy couple combined with the scramble for bids to the wedding ceremony were most profound exhibitions of snobbery in a supposedly democratic country. We cannot agree with this view of the case. It appears to us that the charge of snobbery is discharged at the outset when we consider how unanimously it would have application. Does anyone imagine that any prince or princess of Europe or Asia or any other country where royalty plays a large role, would have attracted one-hundredth the attention and the playful affection bestowed upon the president's daughter and the young man she has selected to spend the rest of life at her side? We believe that this very manifestation of interest is one of the strongest possible proofs of our democratic sentiment in this country. It comes from high and low rich and poor. The gamin on the street of New York was as anxious to get a glimpse of Miss Alice on her recent visit there as any of the title-worshipping members of the new rich.

The three-lollers-a-week charwoman as well as the wife of the multi-millionaire, has been greedily devouring all details of the wedding, the trousseau of the bride, what the groom said, how he acted the probable itinerary of the bride's tour, etc. Occasionally perhaps some particularly popular member of the European royalty will provoke such unanimous enthusiasm on the eve of their nuptials. The marriage of Wilhelmina of Holland was an instance. But in the vast majority of cases the note of rejoicing at a royal wedding is one that is forced and prefatory—a startling contrast to the spontaneous interest and marrying-making that has ensued ever since the first announcement of the Roosevelt betrothal.

Had Alice Roosevelt been of the patrician, aristocratic, stiff-necked breed of American woman—and we have plenty of them—she would have been troubled precious little by the attention or the curiosity of American citizen. Had her now husband been an austere forbidding sample of the frock-coated gentry who would freeze the hoi polloi with a stare and put them off with a sneer, the engagement would have been announced the presents bestowed and the ceremony performed with not a scintilla of the furor we have witnessed during the last few weeks.

But each one of these two young people embodies the genius of Americanism. They are both democratic affable easily approached with a suggestion of false or stilted dignity. They both stand on their rights—good-naturedly—it is true. Who can blame them? Who could blame Miss Roosevelt when the genial interest of the people of Philadelphia and New York threatened to put a summary end to her privacy? Who can blame Longworth for laughingly fending the photographers and reporters from the then Miss Roosevelt when they would have positively impeded her progress and given her not the rights accorded the ordinary private citizen?

It was just a wholesome rollicking Human American girl that the people of America were very much interested in. She had endeared herself to them by showing that at all times she was very much in sympathy with the popular viewpoint. And when this romantic crisis in her life happened along they retaliated by displaying in unmistakable fashion their unbounded admiration for her personality.

There is as much difference between snobbery and affection as there is between midnight and mid-day.

Two Women.

In New Jersey a jury and a Prosecuting Attorney did their best to hang a little ignorant Italian mother who killed the man who tried to be-foul her home.

In Colorado a jury has just acquitted a woman who killed her husband for no other reason but that she was tired of him.

These are two extremes. The lustful brute who made life miserable for Mrs. Tolla got her just deserts. The man had dogged her for months. She was afraid to tell her husband who was a small man for fear the big beast might kill him. Distracted she shot her pursuer to preserve her purity and her home. Being poor and unable to speak the English language, her testimony went for nothing. Her case was railroaded evidently in order to make a reputation for a prosecuting Attorney.

There was no justification for the verdict against Mrs. Tolla. A protest went up especially from the West against the cruelty. The Board of Pardons looked into the matter with the prospects that Mrs. Tolla will get a new trial and go free.

Also in the Colorado case there was no justification for the verdict. The woman should have been sent to the penitentiary.

This woman was guilty. There was no provocation worthy of the name. The act was cold-blooded. She was a woman of bad reputation but she was handsome! It was in evidence that she had played fast and loose with family ties. She did not deny it. But she was pretty. She made sad eyes at the jury. Her attorney worked on the sympathy of the jurymen and got an acquittal.

Hanging is a barbarity upon which future times will look with horror. But.

A woman should be punished for a crime as a man is punished. One woman should not be dragged to the gallows because she is poor and defenseless while another escapes because she makes eyes to a panel of men.

POINTS ON ETIQUETTE.

About Answering Announcement Cards, Proper Form Thereof and the Reception Day.

There exists a confusion sometimes in regard to the question of a reply to announcement cards.

In fact, no answer at all is required, unless the cards contain a date of reception or days in certain months. Then the calling card of the recipient should be mailed to the address, directed to whoever sent the cards of announcement, writes Hortense Prevost.

A card announcing a marriage is equivalent to a card only; it is not an invitation of any kind but a statement to the effect that a couple have been married at a certain time and place. If however, is added that "Mr. and Mrs. Blank," the newly married couple; will be "at home" with day and date and address, a reply must be made, if not in person, by one's card, and posted to reach the name on the day of the "at home."

Announcement cards are always sent by the parents or those who stand in that relation, or the bride. The form is simple:

"Mr. and Mrs. Blank announce the marriage of their daughter (or niece), Mary Elizabeth to Mr. James Fenner Smith, at such and such a church (or at a home wedding) on such and such a date."

The acknowledgment must be a visiting card in an envelope with the names of Mr. and Mrs. Blank on the outside, they having sent the card of announcement.

Two of the husband's cards must be inclosed, with one of the wife's, of course.

Acknowledgment of receiving the announcement cards are never sent to the bride, as she does not send them at all. A note of congratulation to the bride is always in order, if one is personally acquainted.

Enough.

(Karl Von Kneft in March Lippincott's.) Governor Hogg's frankness in naming his children is quite equalled by a Washingtonian whose wife presented him twin daughters. At the christening all were startled to learn that the father had decided to name them Kate and Duplicate.

Several years later twins were again born into the family—this time boys who were duly named Peter and Repeter.

A third time this strenuous opponent of race suicide was blessed with children twain, and this time he firmly named the wee lads Max and Climax.

DEATH OF R. P. MILLER.

Life Snuffed Out By Paralysis of the Heart.

At Close of Day's Work When he was Starting for Home.

EVERYONE RESPECTED HIM.

[Owensboro Messenger.]

Richard P. Miller, one of the best known and popular men in Owensboro, is dead. His death came suddenly shortly after 6 o'clock Friday evening. He was preparing to leave the office of the Green River Distilling company, where he was employed. He left the main office and was walking through a hallway, when he staggered and fell to the floor without uttering a word. When Loyd Austin, a clerk in the office, reached his side his breathing was hardly perceptible. Dr. W. F. Stirman, who has an office in the Central Trust Company building, was quickly summoned. Mr. Miller's heart had ceased to beat when the physician knelt over his prostrate form. His death was pronounced to be from paralysis of the heart.

Richard P. Miller was born in Ohio county, near Hartford, forty years ago. He received his early education at the county schools and later attended the Hartford college, Prof. McHenry Rhoads and Prof. Whaland Alexander, of this city being his teacher while in Hartford. Mr. Miller began the study of stenography and type writing. It was not long until he became an expert. About fifteen years ago he accepted a position in the office of the Owensboro Wagon company and came here to live. After remaining with the wagon company for about six months he went to the law office of Sweeney, Ellis & Sweeney. His capable work as a stenographer won for him the position as official court stenographer, which position he held for many years.

Mr. Miller was the first man to be engaged as an instructor in stenography in the Owensboro public schools. This branch became so popular that Mr. Miller was elected to a place in the faculty of the high school. Besides stenography and typewriting he taught other studies.

Mr. Miller remained at the high school for several years and the majority of stenographers in Owensboro received their training under him. There was never a more popular teacher in the Owensboro public schools than "Dick Miller," as the boys lovingly called him. He had the respect of every student in the school and there was nothing he would not do to assist the pupils.

It was with great regret that the board of education accepted his resignation about five years ago when he decided to enter the employ of the Green River Distilling company. Mr. Miller had charge of the correspondence of the company and proved himself a most valuable man in the position. He was held in the highest regard by Mr. McCulloch and all others connected with the office.

Mr. Miller was heard to remark Friday that he was in the best of health. The theory was advanced that the nervous tension produced by the exacting work he was engaged in brought about the paralysis of his heart.

Mr. Miller was a member of the Fourth street Presbyterian church and of the Odd Fellows lodge. He would probably have been elected general secretary of the lodge this year had he lived.

He is survived by his widow and two children, his mother, three brothers and one sister. His mother is Mrs. Elvira Miller, of McHenry. His brothers are W. B. Miller, of Owensboro; Marvin Miller, of Palestine, Texas; and D. Miller, of Beaver Dam. His sister is Mrs. Charles Carson, of McHenry.

The remains will be taken to McHenry on the Illinois Central train to-night. There will be a brief service at his late residence at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, conducted by the Odd fellows. The burial will take place at McHenry Sunday.

"The Serene Attitude."

A Chicago club woman has been advising young married women who have to struggle against insufficient income to adopt the "serene attitude" and find peace from worry.

MADE FROM NATIVE ROOTS.

SAFE AND RELIABLE.

That the roots of many native plants, growing wild in our American forests, possess remarkable properties for the cure of human maladies is well proven. Even the untutored Indian had learned the curative value of some of these and taught the early settlers their uses. The Indian never liked work so he wanted his squaw to get well as soon as possible that she might do the work and let him hunt. Therefore, he dug "papoose root" for her, for that was their great remedy for female weaknesses. Dr. Pierce uses the same root—called Blue Cohosh—in his "Favorite Prescription," skillfully combined with other agents that make it more effective than any other medicine in curing all the various weaknesses and painful derangements peculiar to women.

Many afflicted women have been saved from the operating table and the surgeon's knife by the timely use of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Tenderness over the lower pelvic region, with backache, spells of dizziness, faintness, bearing down pains or distress should not go unheeded. A course of "Favorite Prescription" will work marvelous benefit in all such cases, and generally effect a permanent cure if persisted in for a reasonable length of time. The "Favorite Prescription" is a harmless agent, being wholly prepared from native medicinal roots, without a drop of alcohol in its make up, whereas all other medicines, put up for sale through druggists for women's peculiar ailments, contain large quantities of poisonous liquors, which are very harmful, especially to delicate women. "Favorite Prescription" contains neither alcohol nor harmful habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients are printed on each bottle wrapper. It is a powerful invigorating tonic, imparting health and strength in particular to the organs distinctly feminine. For weak and sickly women, who are "worn-out," or debilitated, especially for women who work in store, office, or school-room, who sit at the typewriter or sewing machine, or bear heavy household burdens, and for nursing mothers, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will prove a priceless benefit because of its health-restoring and strength-giving power.

For constipation, the true, scientific cure is Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. Mild, harmless, yet sure.

Another woman who has recently come from the Orient has started a fad of the east Indian philosophy of repose, and it is running through all grades of New York society like wild-fire. She teaches that the one thing necessary to human happiness is to sit and keep softly saying "Um" over to yourself until you are what she calls "in tune with the Infinite."

All this sounds very sweet and enticing. But the good, plain, old-fashioned word "laziness" expresses the whole doctrine better.

It is a fine philosophy for turtles. Turtles never worry. Something like "Um" is all they ever have been known to say. Lazing all day long, they have the "serene attitude" and the "repose" in highest perfection. And it is said that they sometimes live 1,000 years.

People who never worry never do anything else of consequence. They may not be turtles, but they might just as well be.

Worry of the right sort is a spur to effort.

Discontent with wrong conditions is the mind's first step toward right ones.

Worry has its uses.

Who has not noted that the dame who fusses and frets and scolds the boys generally keeps the cleanest kitchen and makes the best bread?

Reputation Against Him.

After a wordy argument, in which neither scored, two Irishmen decided to fight it out. It was agreed that when either said "I've enough," the fight should cease.

After they had been at it about ten minutes one of them fell and immediately yelled, "Enough! I've enough!"

But his opponent kept on pounding him until a man who was watching them said:

"Why don't you let him up? He says he's got enough."

"I know he says so," said the victor, between punches, "but he's such a liar you can't believe a word he says."

One would think the Laxative idea in a cough syrup should have been advanced long before it was. It seems the only rational remedy for Coughs and Colds would be to move the bowels and cleanse the mucous membranes of the throat and lungs at the same time. Kennedy's Laxative Honey and tar does this. It is the Original Laxative Cough Syrup the best known remedy for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Whooping Cough, etc. Tastes good and is harmless. Sold by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro.

INTERESTING

Letter From an Ohio County Boy in Far Away Philippines.

Capiz, Panay, P. I., Jan. 10, 1906.

When a Visayan meet another he almost always asks "where are you going?" or "where have you been?" when you give him a kindly "good morning" and he does not understand you he will answer, if at all, "to my house" or "from the river" according to where he may be.

Sometimes a shy maiden may drop her handkerchief, she will quickly pick it up between her toes and slyly raising it behind her will grasp it with her hand. Each evening about sunset the church bell rings and everybody faces towards the church and makes the sign of the cross and prays making the sign again. Then they turn and greet each other with "Buenos Noches," the children kissing the hands of of parents and elderly relatives.

Almost everybody kisses the hand of the village priest whenever they meet him.

Each Sunday morning you may see almost every one in the church and soon after they may repair to the market to buy or sell.

Sunday afternoon is filled with cock fighting to some extent but I think this custom is dying out.

You may also see a few tuba drunks on Sunday as the tuba is sold everywhere on Sunday.

The great mass of people, old and young, male and female, smoke and chew tobacco or "betle nut" and sometimes a mixture of tobacco, betle leaf, lime, and areca nut (improperly called betle nut). A few of the richer and better educated have taken some very good manners from Spanish and other foreigners. In fact the Spanish variety is a very superficial and exaggerated form of courtesy. A man will get up and offer any American his chain and feel like stabbing him if he accepts.

On Christmas eve (Sunday night) there was a big ball in the convent at Dao taking recess for midnight mass in church, where a large tissue paper star and a comet of gaudy color came on a trolley from the back of the church and stopped over "where Christ was born." After mass and a supper at 1 o'clock p. m., we resumed the dreamy (?) two step. And it is two step from start to finish if you like it or not and a little two brisk for my number eights. Well we wound up at day

Impoverished Soil

Impoverished soil, like impoverished blood, needs a proper fertilizer. A chemist by analyzing the soil can tell you what fertilizer to use for different products.

If your blood is impoverished your doctor will tell you what you need to fertilize it and give it the rich, red corpuscles that are lacking in it. It may be you need a tonic, but more likely you need a concentrated fat food, and fat is the element lacking in your system.

There is no fat food that is so easily digested and assimilated as

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil

It will nourish and strengthen the body when milk and cream fail to do it. Scott's Emulsion is always the same; always palatable and always beneficial where the body is wasting from any cause, either in children or adults.

break and took a twenty mile ride to Capiz for the Grand Ball given by our Division Superintendent, The Provincial Treasurer, The Judge of the Court of First Instance and The Provincial Governor.

Christmas night and the Tribunal was overflowing and it was not a cool night either.

Well, the rich, rare perfumes of the Orient are indeed refreshing on such a night when, as Byron says, "twinkling feet and twinkling eyes and all twinkling."

The gigantic nipa leaf stood in classic columns of green in every corner, grand tissue paper steamed from the walls and ceiling, many delicate flowers flashed in the lamp light the tables groaned with sweet waiting for dainty fingers at midnight hour, music swelled the gentle breeze till all went merry as a Christmas ball should be.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION.

It Means Keener Mentality More Strength and Endurance and is Generally Beneficial.

Too many also think of physical education as a one-sided education—all physical—the development of power force skill physical perfection of form—physical ability—physical endurance.

They fail to realize the effect that physical training must have upon the mental and moral forces.

A healthy body is a good thing, a necessary thing, but a healthy mind is also necessary and to complete the perfect human being a healthy soul.

Gymnastic movement besides developing muscular force promoting digestion and respiration and exerting a corrective recreative and invigorating influence upon the body as a whole educates the motor centers of the brain but even more is accomplished for the thinking powers themselves are improved.

The student of physical culture soon learns to think more rapidly as well as more correctly her reaction time is visibly quickened and sense of rhythm improved perception becomes more acute and memory stronger observation more keen and sure; in fact she soon discovers that she has better control of her mind as well as her body.

She is truly a strong woman in every sense of the word for as brain and body have unconsciously developed a strong feeling of self-confidence (the result of conscious power) has taken the place of timidity, as grace of ease of movement have supplanted awkwardness.

Daily exercise increases the powers of resistance and the vitality of the tissues and organs and not only lends pleasure to the life of to-day but stores up strength and endurance for the coming to-morrow.

Mothers everywhere praise One Minute Cough Cure for the suffering it has relieved and the lives of their little ones it has saved. A certain cure for coughs, croup, and whooping cough. Makes breathing easy, cuts out phlegm and draws out the inflammation. It should be kept on hand for immediate use. Sold by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro.

REMEMBER, that the "County Unit" measure was not defeated in the Senate by Republican votes.

WHEN the Kentucky Senate gets through amputating the County Unit bill its daddy won't know it.

COL. BRYAN'S recent speech in China has proven effective. Several American Mission stations have already been broken up.

A WEST VIRGINIA Judge has issued an injunction to prevent a man and his wife from going to church. Evidently great strides have been made in the injunction business.

It will be impossible to get along very much longer without a Republican Judicial District in this vicinity. Conditions are rapidly arising which will require some more shifting by the time the next Legislature meets.

THE teachers of Ohio county and the State at large, will no doubt be gratified to know that a law has passed both houses of the General Assembly giving them the institute week provided the school should be in session.

OUR city "dads" should encourage the building of a water works system at once. The insurance rates are almost as high as the rate of interest on borrowed money here. The lack of adequate fire protection is the excuse given by the insurance board for this high rate.

THE idea of creating a Commissioner for the Court of Appeals, because one of the Judges is physically unable to perform his duties, is outrageous. Let him resign with a life pension. His place can then be filled by some one able to attend to the work. People do not want their cases decided by a commissioner.

THE Kentucky Legislature seems determined to do something to Ohio county during its present session. A bill has been introduced and passed the house of Representatives providing that courts shall be held at Fordsville half of the time. If this bill should become a law—and it has but to pass the Senate and be signed by the Governor to be a law—it would entail vast expense and worry and do no one any good.

JOHN BOHN, one of the yeggmen who confessed guilt of the Shoals

bond robbery, on being questioned as to who his confederates are, said: "I will not peach on our accomplices in Louisville. We will never tell who we gave the bonds to. The people we helped to elect in Louisville are the ones responsible for our present position. This is all we get for the election work we did in Louisville." It is quite unfortunate for these yeggmen that they did not get to Louisville after the robbery before they were captured. Their friends, the city officials would probably have sheltered them.

BEGINNING May 2nd will be held in Lexington a "Conference for education in the South." This will be perhaps the most notable educational gathering ever held in Kentucky. Among those who will attend are such noted educators as Lyman Abbott, Murry Butler, Chas. W. Eliot and Robt. C. Ogden, and hundreds of others of national reputation. Ohio county should send up a representative delegation of the teachers and educators.

THE Hartford Herald, in addressing THE REPUBLICAN under the headlines of "Itemized Statement Requested," says:

If not asking too much we would like to see an itemized statement of Ohio county's indebtedness January 1, 1906.

The records in the County Clerk's office which the Herald may view at any time, shows the following unpaid claims allowed at the October 1905 term, and at previous terms, $2,672.52. Unpaid claims allowed at the Special Term, December 30, 1905, $6,046.10. Claims for debts contracted during 1905, allowed at the January term, 1906, $3,573.84. Due Champion Bridge Co. for building Ambrose Ford bridge, $3,200.00. County bonds outstanding, $500.00. Note and interest due Bank of Hartford, $3,700.00. Unpaid draught due Dickson & Co., assignees of Murphy Bros., for building abutments for Narrows bridge, $4,490.00. Total, $24,182.46. We know it is hard for the Herald to have to admit this State of affairs in light of the fact that it so often stated during the last campaign that the county was out of debt. But the records are against you, Mr. Herald, and you had as well "fess" up.

PRESENT SALARIES AND SOME OTHERS.

The Hartford Herald seems very much wrought up about the question of Ohio County official's salaries. The Herald, in common, with every tax payer of Ohio county is entitled to know how the public money is being expended, and has heretofore been expended, and for their benefit this article is written.

The former County Judge drew a salary of $650.00 a year for his services as such and $100.00 a year for his services as Auditor, making a total of $750.00 a year. The present County Judge was elected Auditor without salary and his compensation as County Judge was fixed at $750.00 so that he does not receive one penny more than his predecessor.

The former County Attorney received a salary of $650.00 and in addition to this he was paid for every suit in which the county was interested.

In order to obtain an idea of how much Ohio County paid her County Attorney last year we have only to refer to the allowances made by the Fiscal Court and find that W. H. Barnes and associates were allowed $200.00 at the last January term of the court for representing the county in certain tax suits and that at the January term, 1905, he was allowed $100.00 for representing the county in a suit against it brought by Dr. Barnhill, making a total allowance of $950. It is true that in the above fees he had associated other lawyers with him but this was done without any order from the County Court and the work properly belonged to the County Attorney.

The new court saw fit to fix Mr. Woodward's salary at $750.00 per year and requires of him that he represent all school trustees in litigation affecting their districts without any fee. From the foregoing it will be seen that the Ohio county tax payers have no reason to complain that the services of their County Attorney cost $750.00 per year instead of $950.00 per year, or that the present County Judge receives exactly the same amount that was paid to the former County Judge for the same work.

The salary of the County School Superintendent was raised from $800.00 per year to $1,000.00 per year and is in reality the only raise that was made. The Democratic county of Daviess, with many less schools, pays $1,500.00 per year. No other change was made in any salary.

It is not necessary to retell ancient history about how bridges and building contracts were let in Ohio county. The people passed on this matter in no uncertain manner, as they will pass on the acts of the present administration, condemning that which is wrong and approving that which is right. We are ready at all times to give any information that would be of interest to the public.

Many sufferers from nasal catarrh say they get splendid results by using an atomizer. For their benefit we prepare Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Except that it is liquid it is in all respects like the healing, helpful pain-allaying Cream Balm that the public has been familiar with for years. No cocaine nor other dangerous drug in it. The soothing spray relieves at once and cure is certain. All druggist, 75c., including spaying tube or mailed by Ely Bros., 56 Warren Street, New York.

REVIVALS IN MIDDLE AGES.

How the Franciscans Made and Held Converts to Their Religion.

At least two methods seem to be used among revivalist workers, both of which have come down from medieval times, says the Contemporary Review.

The Franciscans insisted on an obedient band of workers, with an almost military organization. They indeed called themselves the "Army of Jesus." At the head of the order stood the "general," a new term in the thirteenth century religious life. The chief of the band of workers in any Italian town took as his title the designation given to the military leader in the city republic in which they had their temporary abode. In Venice he was il gonfaloniere de Gesu, in Milan il capitano del Gesu, and so on in other towns. They had distinct modes of beginning their work prescribed for them with as definite details as if they were Methodist missionaries or officers and soldiers of the Salvation Army.

When they began work in any town they were ordered to select a hall if possible in the lowest and poorest district. They were forbidden to paint either pulpit or bench. They were to assemble in front of their hall and march through the streets singing their hymns, playing on pipes and waving banners. When they had gathered a sufficient crowd they were to return to their hall, take their followers in with them and deliver short, practical addresses, interspersed with hymn singing.

Francis had a great dislike to all book learning. He told his followers to mingle with the common people, to talk with the masons when they were building, with the weavers when they were weaving, with the women when in Italian fashion they were washing clothes by the side of the streams. They would thus, he said, find what filled the minds of the people, what spiritual help they needed from the preachers, what difficulties they had in becoming followers of Jesus, and in a morning conversation they would find the material for their addresses.

The Franciscan revivalists subjected their converts also to discipline and kept them united with each other. They became what were called tertiary of the order and made vows to live under a certain prescribed fashion, to devote so much of their money to good works and to give a certain amount of their time to the practice of active benevolence.

Took It Calmly.

One Sunday recently a lady went to church in a town to which she was a stranger and asked to be shown to a seat. The usher conducted her to a back seat in the gallery, the only other occupant at the time being an old gentleman, who rose to let her pass.

It was somewhat dark, and the lady, as she shook her skirts and settled down, had a horrible suspicion that she was sitting on something besides the cushion. She put out her hand and drew forth the sad remains of a silk hat.

"O," she said to the old gentleman, "I beg your pardon. I'm so sorry."

The old gentleman looked at the melancholy ruin, and replied that it could not be helped.

"O, it's truly generous of you to say so," said the lady, "but I'm afraid you're angry."

"Not in the least," said the old gentleman, straightening out the hat and putting it under the seat; "you see, it's not my hat. It belongs to Mr. —, who showed you in."—Stray Stories.

These Are Records.

The highest altitude at which mountain climbers have stayed for any length of time is 20,992 feet, on the Himalayas, where an exploring party painfully spent six weeks in 1902. Higher still, at 21,910 feet, is the extreme point of Mrs. Bullock Workman's ascents, the greatest height reached by a woman. Her husband went on to a point 22,394 feet high, which is the greatest height reached by any mountain climber.

Always the Same.

"Is your husband over-tempered?" "Yes," answered Mrs. Wurrey. "He's just about as irritable one day as another."—N. Y. American.

FEAR FOR POTS AND LINEN

Duchess Forever Measuring to Prevent Petty Theft of Household Articles.

There is one middle-aged but still beautiful duchess whose many whimsicalities pass all the bounds of reason. One of her idiosyncrasies is a firmly grounded belief that the world is in league to steal certain valueless and unimportant possessions, says the New York Sun.

At the ducal palace in Scotland are many priceless heirlooms, much magnificent plate, etc., to all of which she is seemingly indifferent, leaving the care of it to hirelings. Not so the house linen, traveling rugs and kitchen utensils in her various residences.

Often, indeed, before her guests have left their rooms at the conclusion of a visit she is upstairs stripping the beds, and with a tape measure and memorandum, goes carefully over every sheet, towel, slip and cover in the place.

It is of little avail that she assures the disconcerted visitors that her suspicions of filching bits of linen are directed against their maids and valets.

She is equally queer about rugs and wraps. The duke buys heaps of warm carriage blankets, furs, etc., against the shrewd air of the north, but no matter how generous his purchases there is never anything but a ragged Highland plaid on hand. When he goes for a drive all the thick things have been carefully packed in chests, never to see the light.

But most eccentric of all is the duchess' passion for measuring her saucepans. Every day she descends to the kitchen domain and with her own hand records the diameter of every vessel in the cook's keeping.

She fears a big pot may be replaced by a smaller size, and keeps an uproar in the servants' quarters by this strange fancy and also by compelling her domestics to live almost exclusively on fish.

Otherwise the duchess is a brilliant, dignified and delightful woman, and it never seems to occur to her to restrain these uncomfortable and disconcerting practices.

HE WANTED TO RETIRE.

But Fixed Habits of Long Standing Couldn't Be Cast Aside by Physician.

An intimate friend of old Dr. Moggsey called on him one morning, and found, to his surprise, that the doctor was packing his household goods for removal, says Youth's Companion. "What does this mean?" he asked. "It means," said the doctor, "that after practicing medicine in this village of Summerville for 40 years, I have grown tired of it, and I'm going to move away."

"I can't retire and stay here at the same time. My old patients won't let me. I've tried to turn my practice over to one of the other doctors, but it didn't work. I don't need to follow the business any longer, and I want to spend the rest of my days in comfort. I am going to sell or rent my place here and go and live in some town where I shall not be at everybody's beck and call, and where I can enjoy a peaceful old age."

Three or four months later the same friend, in passing the house, was astonished to see Dr. Moggsey standing in the front door, and the familiar professional sign in its old place.

"Why, hello, doctor!" he said, greeting him cordially. "What does this mean?"

"Well," explained the doctor, rather sheepishly, "it means that I was an old fool to think that after living here all my life I could end my days anywhere else. I have put in three of the most miserable months I ever spent anywhere, and have come back to stay. Let the patients come if they want to. So long as I am able to look after them I'll do it—If I have to keep at it for another 40 years."

It is one of the paradoxes of politics that the "straight" ballot is frequently crooked.—Kansas City Star.

SLEEP THE APE OF DEATH.

Striking Name Which Shakespeare Gave to Visit to Slumberland—Scientists Talk of It.

"Shakespeare," said a scientist, "called sleep the ape of death. This is a striking name for a striking thing. Sleep is a wonderland. Let us explore it."

"Self-hypnotism is a mysterious force that we can exercise on ourselves in sleep alone. We are all self-hypnotists. We all, on certain nights, tell ourselves firmly that we must not oversleep, that the next morning—at four, at five or six precisely—we must wake up. And we do wake up. Our sleeping selves respond to the hypnotic suggestion made the night before by our waking selves. That is mysterious and striking, isn't it? Still more mysterious and striking, though, is the fact of our keeping track of the time somehow in our slumber. How on earth do we do that?"

"It is impossible to do without sleep. Men have slept standing, walking, even running. They have slept in battle under fire, with guns roaring on all sides. They have slept in unendurable and deadly pain."

"There is no torture equal to that which the deprivation of sleep entails. The Chinese are the cruelest on earth and the most ingenious of torturers. Well, the Chinese place the deprivation of sleep at the head of their torture list."

"Sleep is a state of rest. The heart rests in sleep. The heart is a rhythmic muscle, not one that never reposes, but one that works at short shifts, like a puddler, a moment on, a moment off. Well, when we sleep, the heart's shifts of rest are redoubled. It works, then, one on, two off, getting, indeed, pretty nearly as much repose as we do."

"The brain, in sleep, becomes pale, and sinks below the level of the skull. When we are awake the brain is high and full and ruddy."

"Not only the brain and heart but even the tear glands rest in sleep. That is why, when we awake, we always rub our eyes. The rubbing is an instinctive action that stimulates the stagnant tear glands, and causes them to moisten properly our eyes all dried from sleep."

ARE REGULAR SKYSCRAPERS

So He Thought, Until She Turned 'Round and Gave Him an Awful Shock.

How fearfully and wonderfully is the feminine of the hour built up in the back.

A man with a discerning eye for these things swears that a fashionable young person who sat in front of him on the train the other afternoon towered yards above the back of her seat. Her collar, according to his calculations, was built up quite six inches high, says the Philadelphia Bulletin. It supported four diamond pins, each at least two inches long, so he reasoned that this was a modest calculation. Where her collar left off her back hair began, and he states that never in his experience has he witnessed hair erected to such a sky-scraping height. He cannot undertake to say how it was done. He only knows that it was waved and puffed far above his level, and he could only peer toward its dim, retreating billows in wonder. He says he knows her maid must have stood on a step-ladder to dress it.

Away up on top, he says, there was set something in the nature of a hat, he couldn't clearly tell what, except that it was mounted on coils and coils of velvet, tilting it, as near as he could judge from the distance, at least a yard above her back hair. The top of it, he says, was not for man to contemplate, nor woman, either, unless she were a Broddingnagian.

When this extraordinary elevation turned around, the man says he got a distinct shock. The precipice that had been reared to such a lofty altitude behind, tumbled straight down sheer threatening to slice off her pretty nose in the descent.

"It looked," said he, vainly struggling to express his emotions, "like somebody had taken a sharp knife, trimmed her off close in front, as my mother used to slice the dough off the pie-tin. I must say after the amazing quantity of hat and hair aft, I wasn't prepared for such an anticlimax forward. She was an awfully pretty girl, but she appeared to feel that her hat didn't quite balance in front, and she kept thrusting out her chin as if she hoped to make up for the deficiency. Poor thing! I suppose it's the fashion!"

Of course, what this man was talking about is the new felt sailor, erected to great heights behind and chopped off short over the nose. Fashionable? Well, rather! As many feminines as can pay the price are annexing the same, and many, many men are bound to be amazed thereby.

Paper Corks.

A remarkable invention has just been perfected and patented. It is a machine which makes corks out of waste paper and paper pulp. All kinds of waste paper can be made into corks, which are superior to the regular sort, as they are not affected by acids or oils; they have been tested by leading chemists and the largest users of corks, and it is claimed for them that they are far superior to the old style in every way.

Don't frown—look pleasant. If you are suffering from indigestion or sour stomach take Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. Hon. Jake Moore of Atlanta, Ga., says: "I suffered more than 20 years with indigestion. A friend recommended Kodol. It relieved me in one day and I now enjoy better health than for many years." Kodol digests what you eat relieves sour stomach, gas on stomach, belching, etc. Sold by Z. The foremost Americans write for, and read the National Magazine. Each number contains new and interesting portraits and personal sketches of men and women prominent in public affairs. High grade novels head the National's 1906 Fiction List—stories that breathe the spirit of to-day. Charles Warren Stoddard, in Literary Affairs; Dallas Lore Sharpe, on Nature Study; Robert Edgren, on Sports; Poultney Bigelow, on Foreign Affairs; Frank Putnam, on American Politics; Senators Allison, Procter and Bailey, Vice-President Fairbanks, Congressmen Cooper, McCleary,—and many other prominent men are among the contributors of the National Magazine for 1906. The "Heart Throb" Book

LAST year we advertised for "Heart Throb" contributions. All sorts of clippings that had appealed to the people were sent to us. We wanted to know what makes sunny days enduring and dark days endurable. We paid in cash $10,000 in $40 prize awards. These contributions now printed in book form, over 400 pages, are the favorite gems of President Roosevelt, the late Secretary Hay, Speaker Cannon, and other celebrities: also thousands of selections from new subscribers. The awards were made by Admiral Dewey and Senator Allison. This book is unique; a rare volume—just the thing for a friendship gift. In addition to the other attractions in this volume, the last 32 pages are left blank, arranged so that your selections may be added by either writing or pasting on the blank pages, from time to time, pieces you wish to preserve. The first edition has been nearly sold, so those who would avoid waiting for the second edition should order now. Fill out the attached coupon and send it in at once. Books shipped in the order of coupons received. Price $1.50.

OUR NEW YORK WEEKLY LETTER

Pony Coats the Approved Spring Style. The Princess and Empire Gowns Demand Use of the High Bust Corset.

By RENE DEVERAUX.

The craze for empire robes, empire effects and all that is empire has extended to the realm of coats, and the modish spring jacket is the smart little "pony" coat, in length twenty-four inches.

It is an abbreviated box, double or single breasted, with coat collar or revers. It hangs loose from the shoulders in the back and, like all fashions at the present moment, is designed for the glorification of the sylphlike form. For the figure of heavier proportions it is made with the semifitting back. The sleeves are the plain coat and put in the armhole in such a fashion as to stand out, to not droop, for they must give breadth to the shoulders and thus make the waist measure seem smaller.

Covers, chevrons and broadcloths are the materials used, and, as this is the first step at the prevailing mode for spring, they are so far seen only in all shades of tan. Those in white broadcloth are designed to give joy to the summer girl. Arrayed in one of these, with white broadcloth skirt and the latest in sailors, she will be well equipped to conquer pastures new.

Quite the chicest toilet seen at De-monia's on a matinee day of last week was a pony coat of the lightest of tan broadcloth, with skirt and shoes to match. The little French chapeau of the same color had a medium straight brim and high crown. The effective trimming was cell blue chiffon rosettes and dull gold lace.

The Eton and the bolero are quite the rage for every kind of wear. These are made up in silk and elaborately trimmed with lace, embroidery or chiffon. The handsome applique em-broideries afford opportunities for the manufacture of gorgeous and artistic little jackets that will give picturesqueness and cachet even to the robe, otherwise plain. Irish crochet is much used and yards and yards of chiffon plaitings in the trimmings and makeup. All are French. For dressy occasions all are full and, without exception, elbow sleeves.

Corsets are more elaborate and more expensive than ever. Many of the very newest models indicate clearly the lines demanded in the fashionable figure by the latest frock ideas.

Fullness of bust is desired, and a high bust is demanded by all princess gowns and waists of the day. At a fashionable corsetaire's many novelties are seen. One of the latest conceptions is the bust support, which if worn with any corset will give the correct bust lines. They are charming with frills of lace, ribbon knots and shoulder straps of wide silk elastic, which fasten under the arm.

There is a short corset waist, terminating under the arm, made of woven ribbon and worn with the bust support. These are only for the slender figure, for which there is also the long, straight front corset with short hips and high bust.

The new full length French corset for the stout figure is made with the lower part of coutil, incasing the hips and so cut as to reduce their size, the bust high and flat or full, as desired. And they are gorgeous in batiste broche, plain silk, embroidered or brocaded.

Garters, sachets, etc., are growing more attractive each year. Round garters are made with softly shirred satin or flowered ribbon covering the wide elastic, with a rather wide lace frill falling below. The vertical garters are fascinating trifles of flowered or plain ribbon shirred over broad elastic and bordered with narrow valenciennes lace frills. Choux of chiffon form the finish.

Chemisettes of every description are the rage. Many are dainty and very elaborate. They adorn shirt waists and every kind of gown.

Just a word about the new spring goods for your street frock. Gray is the leading shade. Mixed grays or fawn effects in broken plaids or checks or stripes, also shepherd plaids, in soft smooth finished English suitings are on view in all the fashionable shops, and some of the frocks displayed in the modish Fifth Avenue windows are stunning. But of that more anon.

Our readers may have any question concerning fashion or fabrics answered without charge by Rene Deveraux, the fashion expert, by addressing Rene Deveraux, P. O. Box 2193, Madison Square, New York, inclosing stamp for reply.

It's a significant fact that the strongest animal of its size the gorilla, also has the largest lungs. Powerful lungs means powerful creatures. How to keep the breathing organs right should be man's chiefest study. Like thousands of others Mrs. Ora A. Stevens, of Port Williams, O., has learned how to do this. She writes: "Three bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery stopped my cough of two years and cured me of what my friends thought consump-tion. O, it's grand for throat troubles." Guaranteed by Z. FRESH WATER FROM OCEAN

All Seaboard Cities May Be Abundantly Supplied by Springs in the Seas.

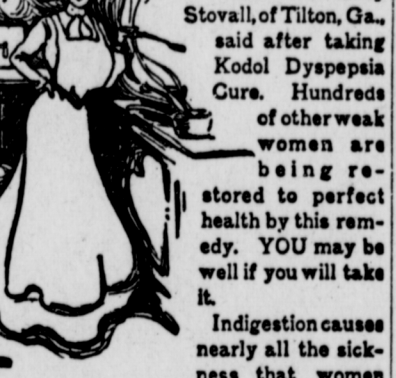

Suggestion of great possibilities of fresh water supply is given in a paper by Prof. C. H. Hitchcock, of Dartmouth college, in the San Francisco Chronicle. It is a study of fresh water springs in the ocean and within a few miles of the shore. Enough is known of the existence of such springs to warrant the belief that there must be vast quantities of fresh water discharged in this way through undiscovered springs, and perhaps close to big cities and to fertile soil where the water is needed for drinking or for irrigation. Some of these springs show artesian conditions and will rise 32 to 42 feet by the pressure of the supply. There is a porous water-bearing stratum beneath an impervious cover. Piercing this by boring gives access to a water supply that will rise quite a height without pumping.

One of the most notable examples of this condition is at the island of Oahu. The plantations on this island have made valuable use of the water for irrigation purposes. On one plantation 5,000 acres are so irrigated. Though the pumps work continuously the water never fails. Close to the coast line no pumps are needed, as the water rises 22 feet. At Honolulu such water will rise 42 feet. At Oahu they reach this water-bearing stratum by boring 300 to 400 feet. Some of these springs well up so powerfully as to prevent the ocean water from commingling with the fresh in cases where the artesian water finds its own outlet through a crevice in the impervious strata. Powerful streams are said to discharge millions of gallons of water through artificial openings very near the seashore. These are believed to continue some distance out to sea and then to well up mingled with the ocean billows.

Prof. Joseph Le Conte in his "Geology" mentions the existence of fresh water springs rising in the ocean near Hawaii. Around the Florida coast there is much of this water, and at many places it is bored for and utilized. The wonderful Silver spring, which bursts a full-grown navigable river immediately from its source, is given as an example of the underground conditions that produce the underocean spring. It is the rainfall of a region far away, perhaps, and the water filtered through miles of sand. Elise Reclus, the great geographer, speaks of such springs existing east of the Isle of Pines. All this suggests the possibility that in the future many big seaboard cities may discover that they can obtain an abundant supply of pure drinking water almost at their doors by searching under the ocean for what is now going to waste and mixing with the brine. It certainly stands to reason that is so many outbursts of fresh water in the sea are already known there must be others yet to be discovered.

He Couldn't Be Fooled.

A shop assistant had arrived in London to help a corn chandler. He had been warned against the people who would try to "take a rise" out of his ignorance, so was perpetually on guard. A customer entered the shop one morning, and said: "I want six penny worth of bird seed, please." The assistant only smiled. The customer repeated his request, but the assistant only responded with a broad grin on his face. Finally the customer, losing patience, asked him in forcible language why he did not serve him with the bird seed. "It's no manner of use your trying to take me in," said the assistant. "Tha knows tha cannot catch me." "What on earth do you mean?" said the angry customer. "Why, I know that birds grow from eggs, not from seed!"

Still Running Wild.

In Sable island, off the coast of Nova Scotia, troops of wild horses are to be found. The original stock are believed to have landed from a Spanish wreck early in the sixteenth century, though in the opinion of some their introduction took place at a later period. Twenty-five years ago it was estimated that these horses numbered 600, but at present there are scarcely 200 of them left. Sable island is an accumulation of loose sand, forming a pair of ridges united at the two ends, and enclosing a shallow lake. There are tracts of grass in places, as well as pools of fresh water.

PRAYERS ARE NOT FAVORED

Kansas Gets Cloud of Pest Prayed Out of Nebraska and Sends Message to Neighbor Executive.

"If the mosquito theory regarding yellow fever is correct," said Maj. Charles B. Peck to the Houston Post, "we ought by all means to send to the governor of Louisiana a message similar to the one the governor of Kansas sent the governor of Nebraska."

"I remember once when the grasshopper scourge hit the western country. Nebraska had been severely afflicted. It finally got so bad that the governor of the state issued a proclamation setting apart a certain day for all the people of the commonwealth to meet at the public places in the various cities, towns and hamlets to pray the Creator to deliver them from the curse. The message was worded in the usual terminology and the people met as appointed."

"It happened about that time some one in Kansas called the attention of the governor of that commonwealth to a cloud of grasshoppers being blown into the state from the north. You know they came in perfect clouds. Well, as soon as the governor saw that cloud he immediately wired the Nebraska governor as follows: "Stop praying your infernal grasshoppers into Kansas."

VALUABLE TREE—MAHWA.

Scientists Find That This Growth Possesses Intrinsic Value When Placed on Market.

As a reliable commercial source of sugar, the flowers of the Mahwa tree (Bassia latifolia) of India are being brought into notice. The following description of the tree and of the numerous products that it yields are from a translation, published in the National Druggist of a lecture delivered by Prof. Voigt before the Natural Science society of Hamburg, Germany. He said:

"The Mahwa, as a nut-bearing tree, has been known for many ages. In the Laws of Manu the priesthood of India are forbidden to indulge in madhvi, a fiery liquor made from the fruit, and in the 'Collection of Indian Remedies,' by Suruta, we are told that the tree yields a sugary paste, from which a fermented drink is made."

"It belongs to the sapotaceae (star-apple family), the family to which belongs the very important gutta-percha tree of the Malay archipelago, and is found only in the northern border of India, where it grows clear to the foot of the mighty Himalayas. It grows from 50 to 65 feet high, and is one of the few deciduous trees of that region. Its blooming period lasts from the end of February till April. Quickly after the pollen is formed, the whitish tubular flowers swell to balls about as large as a cherry, which contain a large amount of invert sugar (honey). The flower tubes fall, covering the ground in the greatest profusion. They are eagerly gathered by the natives and eaten. A tree yields from 200 to 300 pounds of flowers, which, when dry, weigh about half as much, and occupy about one-fourth as much space."

"The land is leased to the natives, and as the region where it grows is of a poor and stony soil, the tree constitutes an important source of food."

"The fruit is usually mixed with rice and thus eaten. The dried flowers have very much the taste and appearance of raisins. They are exported to Europe as a curiosity, and are also used as food for animals. Distillation yields a large percentage of spirits, which, diluted with water makes 'dava,' a native whisky very much used. It comes on the market in open barrels, and is highly esteemed by Europeans, who claim that it equals the best whisky. Almost every village has its distillery. In the island of Carongo, just outside of Bombay, some 60,000 to 80,000 rupees are invested in stills alone."

"Beside the flowers the seed are of considerable use. They contain a fat of butter-like consistency, which serves as a food stuff. It is called 'mowra,' and the crude stuff known as illipe, and is used by the Europeans largely for making candles, soaps, etc. The wood is very hard and lasting, and is much used for making the wheels of the native bullock carts."

ELECTRICITY KILLS BUGS.

By Placing Charged Rod in Earth Insects Will Leave Their Hiding Places.

There seems to be no end to the uses of electricity. Bedbugs may be annihilated by it. Insects in Europe have, it is asserted, already been successfully attacked with it. An engineer at Monaco was the first one to have his attention called to the matter, while he worked with an electric machine in the open air. He observed that metal rods, which were put in the ground and were then connected with a dynamo of 110 volts, made insects in the vicinity leave their hiding places in the ground. He argued that electricity might, therefore, be used on a large scale to kill these insects, which all Americans eat with the greatest relish.

It is probable that for the killing of these insects a different apparatus should be used. Further experiments must be made to this end. An apparatus is mentioned, used by a Russian, for killing insects by electricity. A dynamo is so placed upon a hand that no electricity is engendered while the car is standing still. When in motion the current goes into the ground through the wheels of the car upon one of which are placed brushes of copper

FREE TRIP TO MAMMOTH CAVE.

Offered By The Republican to School Boys of Ohio County.

Our Readers Will Name the Most Popular Boy in Each Magisterial District.

How many persons in Ohio county have seen the Mammoth Cave? Situated less than 100 miles from us, it is visited every year by people from every land, as one of the seven wonders of the world. Doubtless many of our readers have been embarrassed when in other States, they were asked to describe the wonderful Kentucky Cave and were compelled to admit, to the utter astonishment of the questioner, that they have never seen it. To contribute somewhat toward this necessary part of the boys education, the management of this paper has decided to inaugurate a pilgrimage to the cave for the first week in September of this year, and seven school boys, one from each Magisterial district in Ohio county, between the ages of 12 and 20 will be given the trip free of charge accompanied by one of the editors.

OUR PLAN.

Every school boy in Ohio county who was not less than 12 nor more than 20 years old January 1, 1906, will be entitled to be voted for. The candidate receiving the largest number of votes cast for any one in his district will be entitled to the trip. Every candidate must reside in the district from which he is named, and the right is reserved to withdraw the offer in any district from which only one is nominated. Every year's subscription to THE REPUBLICAN of $1.00, whether arrears or advance, will entitle the subscriber to 10 votes, and six months subscription to 5 votes. The names of candidates with number of votes received to date will be published each week. No employee or member of the family of any one connected with this paper will be eligible as a candidate. Persons sending votes by mail, will please cut out and use the following ballot:

THE DISTRICTS.

The seven Districts are made up of territory as follows:

DISTRICT No. 2.—Cromwell, Select, Arnold, Rosine, and Horse Branch voting precincts.

DISTRICT No. 3.—Sulphur Springs, Narrows, Olaton and Magan voting precincts.

DISTRICT No. 4.—East and West Fordsville, Aetnaville, Shreve, Ralph and Herbert voting precincts.
